DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's arguments filed 12/20/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. See argument below.

Rejection of claims according to Nishi, Yasui, Kadowaki and Hasegawa under 35 USC 102(b) will be maintained for reason on record and reason as follows. Applicant argues that the present invention clearly teaches a liquid herbicidal formulation wherein ALS inhibitor is in the dissolved form prior to application; whereas, the prior art discloses solid formulation (Nishi and Hasegawa) or aqueous formulation (Yasui and Kadowaki) and their application requires an extra step of dissolving in water which often leads to undissolved fractions in the concentrate and eventually results in application problems. Applicant argues that the instant invention provides for inventive liquid formulations are stable to degradation and have favorable performance properties. Applicant refers to Examples I-XIV, Table I and comparative example, Table II. Applicant argues that Examples clearly show that instant invention overcomes the problem of storage stability associated with liquid sulfonylurea formulations. Examiner disagrees with Applicant's arguments. Examiner argues that the fact the prior art references cited disclose a composition that is eventually dissolved in water anticipates the instant invention. Examiner argues that the stability results in Examples I-XIV, Table I and comparative example, Table II are inherent to the prior art compositions since the prior art discloses the same combination of chemicals as disclosed by the instant invention. Examiner argues that no 35 USC 103(a) argument is necessary since Examiner argues 35 USC 102(b) as inherency.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
